Nicholson sentenced to death in murder of G.H. brother, sister

Cuyahoga County Prosecutor Michael C. O’Malley announced last week that Matthew Nicholson, 30, has been sentenced to death for the murders of 17-year-old Manuel Lopez and 19-year-old Giselle Lopez.

“The there can be no greater form of abuse than killing someone’s children in front of them,” said Prosecutor O’Malley. “Matthew Nicholson is a monster for his barbaric actions and received the sentence he rightly deserved. He was unremorseful to the very end.”

On Oct. 11, 2019, a jury found Nicholson guilty of the aggravated murder of the two teenagers and attempted felonious assault on their mother. The jury’s guilty verdict of aggravated murder included Course of Conduct specifications, indicating that the crime was part of a course of conduct involving the purposeful killing of two or more persons. This specification is one of the qualifying aggravating factors for the death penalty. On Oct. 18, the jury found that the aggravating factors outweighed the mitigating factors and recommended that the death penalty be imposed.

On Sept. 5, 2018, Nicholson got off work and drove to a house owned by his girlfriend, Americo Polanco, 44, near E. 86th St. and Garfield Blvd. in Garfield Heights. Nicholson argued with her about a previous relationship and attacked her in a bedroom, strangling her and striking her in the face multiple times. The victim’s 17-year-old son intervened to stop the attack and a struggle ensued between him and Nicholson. After his mother separated them, the son called police while Nicholson got a handgun.

The mother’s 19-year-old daughter had returned home from work and entered the house. When the victim instructed her children to run outside, Nicholson fired 13 shots at them. Both suffered multiple gunshot wounds in the back. The mother ran to a neighbor’s house and Garfield Heights Police arrived on scene. The 17-year-old boy died at the scene and his 19-year-old sister was transported to the hospital, where she underwent emergency surgery and was pronounced deceased shortly thereafter. Nicholson was arrested after a four-hour standoff with the Southeast Area Law Enforcement Swat Team. The investigation was conducted by Garfield Heights Police, the Cuyahoga County Medical Examiner’s Office and the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

Shown above are the newly sworn in members of Garfield Heights Council at the November 12th meeting. Residents attend meeting on Wargo Farm property

By Ellen Psenicka

Garfield Heights Ward 6 Councilman Matt Burke held his monthly Community Awareness meeting last Wednesday evening at the Civic Center. The meeting was devoted to discussion of the old Wargo Farm property at the southern tip of Garfield Heights behind Garfield Commons on the other side of Hathaway Road.

The city purchased the 46-acre parcel from the Wargos in 1988 and the house next door that was razed, for an investment that totaled $425,000. Ward 7 Councilman Tom Vaughn told the 40-some people attending the meeting that the Wargo property is located in Vaughn’s ward.

He said the original plans for the property included building of a recreation center, baseball diamond and tennis courts but the city never was in a financial position to move forward with it. Then, he said, the 2008 crash happened and the city was forced into state receivership.

According to Vaughn, Mayor Vic Collova said there are businessmen recently coming to the city inquiring about the property, and the city is still trying to figure out what the property is actually worth in today’s market.

Vaughn said the county has appraised the property for tax purposes at $600,000. He explained that the property as owned by the city is zoned U8, which allows a park, hospital or city use. If the property is sold, he said, it would revert back to U1, which is residential use.

Only 23 acres of the 46-acre parcel is buildable. Vaughn said, noting that a developer would probably turn over the unsusurable acreage for a city park or to the Cleveland Metroparks.

He said any sale of the property would be up to Garfield Heights City Council, which could open it up to a citywide vote.

Kate Abarbanell, a resident whose property abuts the Wargo property, was at last week’s meeting and said she talked with the head of acquisitions at the Metroparks, who told her they were very interested in acquiring the property.

Vaughn said if developers or the Metroparks wants to buy the property, it would go to the highest bidder, but city council would have a say in what the acreage would be used for.

“There would be public meetings and everything would be out in the open,” he said.

Agreement between the city and the Fraternal Order of Police, Ohio Labor Council, Inc. for safety dispatchers.

• Directing the execution of the Collective Bargaining Agreement between the city and the FOP, Ohio Labor Council, Inc. for jailers and records clerks.

The next regular meeting of council is scheduled for Monday, November 25.

Meet Shayla Davis, new Ward 4 G.H. council member

Garfield Heights Councilwoman Shayla L. Davis, one of three new faces on Garfield Heights Council, ran unopposed for the council seat of incumbent Eugene Glenn in Ward 4, who chose not to run in the recent November 5 election. With Charles Donahue and Jason Blake, she joins incumbents Michael Dudley, Sr., Mike Nenadovich, Matt Burke and Tom Vaughn to make up the seven-member council.

Davis was born in Garfield’s Ward 1, attended St. Timothy Catholic School and John F. Kennedy High, graduated from Cleveland State University, College of Urban Affairs, with degrees in nonprofit administration and public management, as well as being a law student at Cleveland-Marshall School of Law. She is the mother of Shayla, 27, and Anthony, 21, both graduates of Garfield Heights High, and grandmother of three-year-old RJ.

She has lived in Ward 4 since 2004, and has been employed with the Cuyahoga Metropolitan Housing Authority, US Postal Service, Cleveland State University, City of Cleveland Public Health Department, Cleveland Municipal Court, Cuyahoga County Defender’s Office and Cuyahoga County Board of Health. Davis currently owns and operates a mobile notary business throughout Greater Cleveland specializing in wills, powers of attorney, mortgage closings and other legal documents.

She said that as a councilwoman, her primary role is to advocate for the people of the city and act within the best interests of the city.

“She believe the foundation of any thriving community should include the community voice, recreation, economic development, rising property values and safe neighborhoods,” Davis said. “If we want to attract strong families back into our community, we must work to enhance and expand these categories.”

She said she plans to host Ward 4 Meet-ups beginning next spring where residents can discuss concerns with her and find ways to impact the community. Davis said she currently offers one-on-one “Conversations with Councilwoman Davis” for residents and businesses.

“I look forward to working with all city departments and being a positive representative for Ward 4,” Davis said.

G.H. high school student had handgun inside school

Last Thursday Garfield Heights Police received information that a student at Garfield Heights High School may be in possession of a gun. The student was confronted by the school resource officer and was indeed found to be in possession of a handgun.

The student was placed under arrest without incident and taken to the Garfield Heights City Jail for processing. The student remained in custody at the jail while the case is being reviewed by the Cuyahoga County Juvenile Prosecutor’s Office. At no time did the student brandish the weapon or threaten to use it in any way, GHPD said.

Fundraiser held for Neighborhood Pets

Saucisson butcher shop on Fleet Avenue in Slavic Village was the site of a fundraiser last Sunday afternoon for Neighborhood Pets Outreach & Resource Center on East 65th Street, which has been broken into several times recently. Neighborhood Pets offers low or no cost services to ensure that struggling families don’t have to give up their pets because of a lack of resources. It is a walk-in facility open three days a week and also by appointment.

The fundraiser was a Battle of the Brunch Cocktail contest with Porco and The Spotted Owl there to see who pours the best brunch libation. The event raised $5,000 for Neighborhood Pets, which was matched by Cleveland City Council President Kevin Kelley for a $10,000 payout and a fun afternoon for all involved in helping a worthy cause.

Red Cross Blood Donation Opportunities

$5 Amazon.com Gift Card, courtesy of Suburban Propane, for blood and platelet donors

The American Red Cross urges eligible donors to be the lifeline for patients in need this holiday season by making an appointment to give blood or platelets. Additionally, those who come to give Nov. 27-30 will receive an exclusive long-sleeved T-shirt, while supplies last.
